This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. NOTE.

PRINCIPLES ON WHICH THE CATALOGUE HAS BEEN COMPILED.

THE Catalogue is arranged in one general alphabet, the Library itself being arranged in Classes on the shelves.

Each Work has but one principal entry, and this entry is under the Author's name, when given on the title-page, or otherwise known. Anonymous works, whose authors' names are unknown are placed under the subject to which they relate; or if on no definite subject, under their usual, popular, or arbitrary title.

 Authors' names are printed in Roman capitals [ACKERLEY] and the subject headings in Roman small letters [Aargau].

Cross-references or secondary entries are made from the subjects of biographies to the authors; from anonymous and pseudonymous works to the writers' real names; and from works included in, or noticed in the title-page of other publications, to those publications. And to obviate the imperfection necessarily attendant on an alphabetical arrangement of Authors only, and for the greater facility of reference, short classifications are introduced of the subjects on which the books in the Library treat, referring to the names of the authors in the same general alphabet, thereby uniting the advantages of the Alphabetical and Classified systems.

 The headings of these classifications are printed in Egyptian type [Africa], and the names to be referred to, in common with the other cross-references, are printed in Italics [Beke] succeeding a colon (:).

The Tracts and Pamphlets in the Library are bound up in six classified series, or collections. Each Tract is also entered separately under its author's name, or its subject (if anonymous) in the general alphabet, and is distinguished from the other works in the Library by an asterisk (*) prefixed.

Where no place of publication is affixed to English books, London is to be understood.

RULES

FOR THE

1. The Library is open daily from Ten till Six, except during the month of September, when it is closed for the annual revision of the Catalogue.

2. Fellows of the Society are permitted to take out Books on making personal application, and signing the Lending-Book, or by letter addressed to the Assistant Secretary; but no Member can have more than two books at a time, nor keep any work longer than a fortnight; but when a book is returned by a Fellow, it can be borrowed by him again, provided it has not been bespoken in the interim by another Member.

3. Scientific Journals and Periodicals are not circulated until the volumes are completed and bound.

4. Cyclopædias and works of reference are not circulated.

5. Any Fellow damaging a work, pays a fine equivalent to the injury.

6. Works taken from the shelves for reference, are not to be replaced, but must be laid on the Library table.

7. The Secretaries shall report to the Council any infringement of these regulations.

STATISTICAL SOCIETY.

THE Statistical Society of London, in pursuance of a recommendation of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, was founded on the 15th of March, 1834, for the purpose of collecting, arranging, and publishing facts calculated to illustrate the condition and prospects of society, and especially facts which can be stated numerically and arranged in tables. The collection of new statistical materials, it was contemplated, would form only one part of the Society's labours; the condensation, arrangement, and publication of those already existing, whether unpublished, or published only in an expensive or diffuse form, or in foreign languages, being a work of equal usefulness. It was also a prominent object of the Society to form a complete Statistical Library as rapidly as its funds would permit.

Such was the purport of the original prospectus; and now that the Society is in the twenty-fifth year of a prosperous existence, its Fellows have every reason to revert with satisfaction to this outline of its objects; for it is very seldom that the first designs of a public association for the advancement of science are all carried out with so much success as has attended upon those which that prospectus describes. The resources of the Society were, in the first instance, chiefly devoted, under the direction of its Committee, to the collection of new statistical information, and to this great purpose a part of its funds is still appropriated. Its Monthly Meetings have cultivated among its Fellows an active spirit of investigation, and brought out the valuable results of much individual labour. Its Journal has fulfilled the purpose of condensation and publication; and the valuable books and papers which have already been collected form a Library of facts of no mean utility.

The Statistical Society of London consists of an unlimited number of Fellows, admitted by ballot, without any entrance fee, but paying a subscription of Two Guineas per annum; of Foreign Honorary Members; and of Honorary Corresponding Members, resident out of the United Kingdom; and it carefully cultivates a connexion with the several local societies of the Empire, and a correspondence with those of Foreign Countries.

Fellows elected in or after the month of June are exempt from paying their subscription for the current year. The Journal of the Society, published quarterly, is distributed gratuitously to all the Fellows; its Library is one of circulation; and its Rooms and its Monthly Meetings are of great resort.
